LOCAL CHURCHES MAY DROP DANCES

Pope's Order Expected to Be Enforced with Catholics of Washington.

Pope Benedict's decree of March 3, prohibiting dancing at Catholic church entertainments, probably will be enforced entertainments, probably will be enforced in Washington.

Local priests stated last night that no order had yet been received from Cardinal Gibbons, of Baitimore, the head of this diocese. They said, however, that the Pope's order was general, having been issued in one of the quarterly issues of the "Acts of the Holy See."

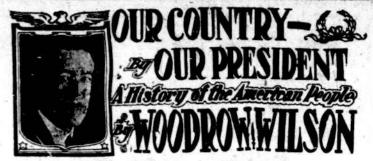

The procedure in such cases, they said

Church, made it clear last night that the decree does not entirely forbid Catholics to dance, but merely prohibits the hold-ing of dance, as a church entertainment or to raise funds for the church. Order Not New.

The letter from Rome to Cardinal Farley, of New York, states that the decree was originally issued by the Third Pienary Council of Baltimore, years ago, but gradually fell into disuse. It further states that although the Fathers of the Sacred Consistorial Congregation at Rome took into consideration the upright pur-poses which prompt church dances, they also weighed the perils and losses "caused by the growing custom."

of the "Acts of the Holy See."

The procedure in such cases, they said, was to read the order at all masses on the first Sunday after it is received from the cardinal. Cardinal Farley, head of the archdiocese of New York, already has issued the order to his churches, and it will be read in all the churches of the metropolis tomorrow.

President Wilson and his Cabinet were in high spirits yesterday when they met to canvaze the political situation as it has been shaped by the national conventions of the past two weeks. They had before them a mass of telegrams of congratulation upon the renomination of the President and the Democracy's preparedness for the campaign. All of these
